FLOOD OF FOOD PARCELS IS CREATING A POSTAL PROBLEM

Local Post Office Officials Having Difficulty In Explaining Situation To The General Public — First Six Months Of This Year Was More Than 50 Per Cent Of The Total 1946 Figure.

Grimsby Post Office employees, like all other postal employees in the province are experiencing considerable difficulty with the general public over the weights of parcels and the postage charges on food parcels to Great Britain, according to L. A. Bromley, Grimsby Postmaster.

For this reason The Independent reprints a newspaper despatch from Ottawa which may help to clarify the situation in the minds of the public.

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—The Post Office Department is up to its neck in the serious problem presented by the vastly increased flow of food parcels to Britain, which this year will far outstrip the peak of 15 million pounds recorded for 1946.

What has become a normal flow today is something resembling the usual Christmas rush. Staff increases have been necessary and added equipment installed to meet the new load, and there is still the Christmas season ahead. Even in the first six months of the year the volume was more than 50 per cent of the total 1946 figure.

There has been a small increase in the inter-company traffic in parcels, but the main additional volume has been provided by parcels from and to individuals, and each succeeding cut in British rations has resulted in a tendency to increase the flow.

At the same time the department has under active consideration the whole question of postal rates and their relation to costs. The record makes it obvious that at the present time the Canadian Post Office Department is subsidizing this food parcel traffic to Britain, on which rates were reduced considerably in January.

GRIMSBY MAN ROBBED IN HAMILTON PARK

Joseph Ivan Brutally Assaulted And Relieved Of $27 By Two Men In Dundurn Park.

Brutally assaulted by two men while he was visiting Dundurn Park, Hamilton, on Sunday afternoon, Joseph Ivan of Grimsby, informed police that in the fight he had lost his wallet containing $27 in cash and personal papers.

The young man told Constable Don MacFarlane that while strolling through the park grounds about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon he noticed two men were following him. He did not think the incident serious until he proceeded over an embankment and circled through the C.N.R. freight yards to the bayshore.

After viewing the waterfront he started to return to the park when the same two men appeared on the scene at the foot of the park embankment. One man struck him a severe blow over the left eye and when he fell to the ground the other pinned his arms down after kicking him.

The first thug went through the Grimsby man's pockets and found his wallet. Both men then ran away.

COL. W. W. JOHNSON VERIFIES STRAWBERRY PICKING STORY

In the June 26th issue of The Independent appeared a story telling about a strawberry picker on the American west coast who picked 533 quarts of strawberries for a day's work. We doubted this story at the time.

The following week our good friend at Grimsby Beach, A. W. Eickmeier, came to the fore with a story about an Indian who 28 years ago working for a fruit farmer at Clarkson picked 500 quarts of berries a day for six days hand running, beginning work at eight o'clock in the morning and finishing up at 5.30 p.m. That was a lot of strawberries for one man to pick, 3,000 quarts a week. The editor was inclined to think that "Eicky" was pulling his leg.

D. MARSH CARPENTERS ON PARADE

Here is another photo taken 38 years ago—in 1909—and depicts another scene in the big Labor Day parade. In front is the float of the D. Marsh firm, lumber dealers and contractors, and marching at the rear, led by the late ex-Reeve Henry H. Marsh are the 50 odd carpenters that were employed by that firm in those days.

SURPLUS AMERICAN PEACHES DUMPED ON CANADIAN MARKET

This Despite A Tariff Wall Of 25 Per Cent Plus An Additional Ad Valorem Duty Of One And Two-Fifths Cents Per Pound — Kept Home Price Up.

(The Niagara Fruitman)
It is small consolation for Niagara fruitmen shipping early peaches to know that the U.S. fruit which glut the Canadian market is actually sold at a substantial loss to the American growers.

With a bumper crop of good quality Elbertas, much more than their own market would absorb without a price break, the surplus was dumped on Canadian fresh fruit markets over the substantial tariff wall of 25% plus an additional ad valorem duty of 1 2-5 cents per pound—an impost which totals roughly to 25 cents per six-quart basket.

Also to be noted is that the better variety southern Elbertas placed on our markets in competition without generally poorer earlier varieties rendered local peaches very weak in sales appeal. The imported peaches sold first.

By moving this substantial block of the crop out of their country at a loss they succeeded in maintaining a fair price on their own markets—about $1.75 a bushel. Balancing the dumped portion of their pick with the bulk sold at this price, it was good business from (Continued on Page 5)

OLD GRIMSBY PARK

(From the Spectator files of Friday September 2nd, 1887.)

The directors of Grimsby Park are apparently innocent of the ways of the business world. They say: "We might also state that up to this time we have made no money out of Grimsby Park, as all the money taken in has been spent upon the grounds." If a worldly man bought a piece of property worth, say, $10,000, and was able, by charging a fee at the gate to improve that property until it was worth, say, $25,000, he would be strongly of opinion that he had made money out of the property.

PLAQUE UNVEILED IN ST. JOHN'S AT WINONA

Erected To The Memory Of The Pettit Family Who Donated The Land On Which Church Stands.

On Sunday morning last there was a short service before the Holy Communion, for the unveiling and dedication of a memorial bronze plaque, in St. John's Anglican Church, Winona.

The plaque was given by the descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Murray Pettit, who donated the land on which stands the present Church and Rectory.

The Rector and Churchwardens of St. John's received the plaque placed on the north wall of the Church, while Mrs. C. Loud of Grimsby, representing the donors, unveiled it, as the Rector dedicated the memorial.

The following is the wording of the plaque:

"The Church of Saint John the Evangelist was built on land granted to John Charles Pettit, United Empire Loyalist, in 1805.

This property was given to the Parish by Murray Pettit and his wife, Hannah Ellen, on April 11th, 1890, together with the Crown Deed.

This plaque is erected to the glory of God and in honour of these our benefactors by those who hold dear the memory of their forefathers."

BRUTAL MOTHER GETS THREE MONTHS IN JAIL

Left Little Baby To Broil In Sun For Five Hours While She Visited Beer Parlors.

Convicted on a charge of neglecting her baby daughter for five hours while she visited a beer parlor, Mrs. Olive McIntee, alias Mrs. G. G. McIntee, was sentenced Monday to three months in jail by Judge J. G. S. Stanbury in county court.

The charge was laid by the Children's Aid Society following an incident on Aug. 7 when the four-month-old baby was found, basket outside a refreshment stand, badly burned by the hot sun. Evidence was given that the baby had been left for approximately five hours while the accused was all visited the beverage room.

Lloyd S. Richardson, supervisor of the Children's Aid Society prosecuted the charge. He told the court that Mrs. McIntee had admitted leaving the baby alone on other occasions while she spent long periods in beverage rooms.

The baby is now in the care of the Children's Aid Society.

PLANT MANAGER THIRD IN LINE

Bruce Todd Follows In Footsteps Of His Father And Grandfather — Knows No Other Business Except Fruit Processing — Young In Years Old In Knowledge.

In its report of the staff changes that took place in the two Canadian Canners factories, last week, The Independent overlooked one very important fact, and news item. It neglected to state that Bruce Todd, the new manager of the Robinson street plant was the third generation of the Todd family, in direct line, to manage that important processing business.

The first Todd to come into that plant was the well beloved and well "knocked" gentleman, Edward Todd, whose demise The Independent regretfully chronicled three years ago. He came to Grimsby from Simcoe and for nearly 35 years managed the Robinson street factory. During that time his oldest son, Norman J., grew up and worked through all the different branches of the plant and became superintendent.

Upon the death of Edward Todd, his son Norman J. became the manager, a job which he has filled most capably to the satisfaction of his employers and the fruit growers with whom he had to deal. During his managerial regime, his son Bruce, who since a kid has known nothing in a manufacturing manner except processing fruit, and who was superintendent under his father, has now become manager of the Robinson street plant.

Thus, Bruce Todd, becomes the third generation, in a direct line, of the Todd family to manage the Robinson street factory, the oldest plant of its kind in the Niagara Peninsula, and just possibly the oldest in Ontario.

While somewhat young in years for such a responsible position, still he is old in knowledge that he has gained from actual operation and from education from his father and grandfather. He had a good education at Grimsby High school and took a commercial course in Hamilton as well as learning the processing business from first hand knowledge, and The Independent believes is quite capable of carrying on in the traditional Todd style, the responsible position in which he has been placed.

LINCOLN LANDLORDS WOULD OUST TENANTS

(St. Catharines Standard)

At least 75 St. Catharines landlords have now applied to the local rentals officer of the WPTB to air their tenant troubles and gain possession of their own houses, it was disclosed today.

The applications have been made following an order passed early in August allowing landlords to seek possession of their houses occupied by tenants, provided they can prove "grievous hardship" because of being deprived of the accommodation. The tenant has an equal chance to explain his problems.

Hearings commence on 1200 cases in Toronto on Monday. But it is expected hearings in this district will not be heard for some weeks. It is believed a commissioner may be appointed next week. He will probably hear cases from landlords in St. Catharines, Welland and Niagara Falls.

MILK BOARD LETTER DOES NOT MAKE IMPRESSION ON COUNCIL

HERE WE ARE — BACK TO THE OX-CART DAYS

There are a lot of grown-up people in this district who have never seen a team of oxen. Well here is a team for you. It was the last team in this district and they were owned by Edsall Springstein of North Grimsby. In this picture they are shown drawing the float of John T. Lane, jeweller and watchmaker, in the big Labor Day parade of 1909, so you can see that any person that remembers this team is certainly past the 40 year mark.

CHARGE AGAINST FRUIT STAND OPERATORS AGAIN DISMISSED

TOWNSHIPS TAX RATE IS REDUCED ONE MILL

Struck By Council At 29.6 Mills — New School Area Pays Highest Rate At 36.6 Mills.

Here is good news for the taxpayers of North Grimsby Township. The 1947 tax rate is one mill less than last year.

At a special meeting of township council on Friday night last the rate for the year for general township purposes was struck at 29.6 mills, which is one mill lower than last year and that in spite of the fact that the County Rate is upped by approximately $2,000 or a little better than one mill.

The rate of 29.6 mills is made up as follows:

	Mills
County Rate	15.8
General School Rate	3.
Hospital	.8
Township General Rate	10.
Total	29.6
Township assessment this year is $1,682,726 and the county will be paid $26,587.
The rates for the various school sections were struck as follows:
S.S. No. 1—3.9 mills, plus 29.6 equals 33.5 mills.
S.S. No. 2—2.6 mills plus 29.6 equals 32.2 mills.
S.S. No. 3—6.1 mills plus 29.6 equals 35.7 mills.
School Area—7 mills plus 29.6 equals 36.6 mills.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER FOR FRUIT HARVEST

Government Report Now Estimates Grape Yield To Be Almost Equal Bumper Crop Of 1942.

There should be a good grape harvest this year of 35,370 tons in Western Ontario, which is 10 per cent more than last year and almost equal to the bumper crop of 1942.

The seasonal fruit and vegetable report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture says, "Vineyards are in excellent condition with vines bearing good-sized bunches of well-developed berries. Insect and disease damage has been negligible."

Eastern Ontario's grapes, tonnage of which is not specified, will be 50 per cent greater for blue varieties; 25 more for white and 20 more for red.

Western Ontario peaches are 19 per cent below 1946 with a yield of 1,195,560 bushels but this is somewhat better than an earlier estimate. Sizing has been excellent in Niagara but rain would be welcome in Essex and Norfolk.

The plum crop is 25 per cent lower. The revised estimate of 220,920 bushels is a betterment over the July report. Western Ontario cherries show a bigger drop of 52 per cent. The total crop is estimated at 82,540 bushels. Some grow-

Clinton Township Growers Erected Stands On The Queen Elizabeth Way Without Permit From Department Of Highways — Concerns Property And Individual Rights Of An Owner.

For the second time, test case charges preferred against two Clinton township farmers of selling fruit on the Queen Elizabeth Way contrary to the Highway Improvement Act was dismissed today by Magistrate H. D. Hallett on technical grounds.

Mrs. Agnes Meszda and Wallace Ryckman were charged last Friday that on August 21 they had erected a building within 150 feet of the limits of the Queen Elizabeth Way without a permit and that they did offer or expose for sale fruit and merchandise within 150 feet of the highway, described as a controlled access highway. The charges were said to be contrary to the Highway Improvement Act.

S. H. Fleming, K.C., counsel for Ryckman said the information was "bad in law" because two charges were contained in one information which is contrary to Criminal Code procedure. F. R. Murgatroyd, Hamilton, counsel for Mrs. Meszda supported Mr. Fleming's objection.

F. G. Gardiner, Toronto, counsel for the Ontario Highways Department, who initiated the charges, said the charges arose out of the same circumstances and were both (Continued on Page 5)

PHEASANTS RELEASED

On Saturday morning last George and Normie Warner released in the Grimsby district 165 young pheasants supplied from the Normandale Hatchery by the Department of Game and Fisheries.

It is expected that another lot of the baby birds, 265 in number, will be arriving in Grimsby within a few days for releasing at different points throughout the township.

AUTOMOBILE AGITATED PEOPLE FORTY-FOUR LONG YEARS AGO

In these days of terrific traffic tolls on our highways we are inclined to think that it is something that has only begun to agitate official and public mind in very recent years. Such is not the case however.

Away back in 1903—44 years ago—the automobile in its very infancy was causing furrows on the brows of our municipal and governmental officials. In proof of this we publish herewith a bylaw passed in that year to regulate automobiles on the highways and bylaws of Lincoln County. The warden of the county that year was the late David Jackson, then Reeve of South Grimsby and latterly a resident of Grimsby, and the father of Mrs. L. A. Bromley.

The bylaw as passed by the Milk was the big topic of discussion at Town Council meeting last night and despite the heat the milk did not curdle nor did the resistance of the councillors to the autocratic actions of The Ontario Milk Board break down, not even in face of the letter that was tabled from the Board, wherein they feebly tried to explain their stand on their refusal of a license to W.B. Thompson to distribute milk in the Town of Grimsby.

Council were not very much impressed with the contents of the letter and in the words of Reeve John Hewitt "it is a very feeble effort of explanation."

Ross Thompson, representing W. B. Thompson, was present and told council that under the circumstances they were not losing any money but they were not making any. They were giving good service to the public who wished it and in many instances a service that had never been given in Grimsby before, but owing to the snarled up situation there were a lot of people who wished to take milk but were afraid to do so because they could not tell how long they would be able to get their supply.

Under the circumstances we have not purchased any equipment, said Mr. Thompson, but have a line on first class equipment to install just as soon as this situation is cleared up. The present property and building have cost us $40,000. New equipment will mean the expenditure of another $20,000.

The letter from the Milk Board reads as follows:

WILL INSURE PUPILS OF GRIMSBY SCHOOLS

Policy Will Cover Bodily Injury And Liability Insurance—Will Promote Night Classes In English And Citizenship.

Following receipt of a letter from D. A. Garvie, district supervisor of community programs of the Ontario Department of Education, Grimsby Board of Education, at the monthly meeting on Wednesday evening, appointed Mrs. L. A. Bromley, R. C. Bourne and Dr. A. F. McIntyre as a committee to secure data and promote night classes in basic English and citizenship for immigrants and others in this district who wish to become Canadian citizens.

The Board also endorsed the idea of the organization of a community program of physical fitness and recreation according to regulations of the Department of Education, and offered the facilities of local schools for the purpose if and when such program is inaugurated.

A bodily injury and liability insurance policy for both public and high school students was accepted, Donald Awde, high school principal, being instructed to ask each high school student to pay 50 cents towards the cost of premium.

EXECUTIVE DEFINED

An executive has practically nothing to do... That is... except: To decide what is to be done... to tell somebody to do it... to listen to reasons why it should not be done... why it should be done by somebody else... or why it should be done in a different way... to prepare arguments in rebuttal that shall be convincing and conclusive... to follow up to see if the thing has been done... to discover that it has not been done... to enquire why it has not been done... to listen to excuses from the person who should have done it, and did not do it... to follow up a second time to see if the thing has been done... to discover that it has been done but done incorrectly... to point out how it should have been done... to conclude that as long as it has been done... it may as well be left as it is... to wonder if it is not time to get rid of a person who cannot do a thing correctly... to reflect that the person at fault has a wife and seven children... and that certainly no other executive in the world would put up with him for another moment... and that... in all probability... any successor would be just as bad... and probably worse...

CANADA'S NEWSPAPERS

Newspapers excite curiosity. Everyone lays hold on the paper with eagerness while the ink is still wet; no one puts it aside without a feeling of disappointment. Everything that one wants is never in it. There seems to be a great deal about something someone else may be interested in, and not enough about one's own pet interests.

The newspaper is up to the minute. Editors think in terms of today, with a fleeting glance at tomorrow, but never of yesterday except as a sketchy background. It is a wonder that out of all the scurrying around newsmen must do, we obtain as much benefit as we do from the newspaper press. To give us this service requires, as Lord Hewart put it: "amazing ability, diligence, care and learning, wit, humour, skill, versatility, dutifulness, courage and sheer hard work."

Most persons in cities think of dailies when newspapers are mentioned, but there are nearly 1 1/2 million persons in Canada who subscribe to 750 weeklies. These weekly newspapers, which move at a slower and more sedate pace than the dailies, make up an important part of community life. They print items about residents and about local events; like their subscribers, they say "hello" to everybody.

Whether it is a weekly or a daily, the newspaper is made by men who are much alike. Editors have been described as cub reporters who have grown up and settled down. They have overcome their urge to participate in every event, to ride on the fire reels and mix with the police in tracking criminals. Their new duty is to see the whole show, and to do that they must stay in their seats. The great editors are not speech-making crusaders, but people who know how to get the news, get it right, get it first, get it into print, and comment on it intelligently.

All kinds of people buy newspapers, people of all ages, creeds, callings and tastes. They bring to bear upon the editor varying amounts of suggestion, advice and demands. It takes just as much courage for an editor to start publishing a new feature today as it did to start Daniel Defoe's revolutionary "Robinson Crusoe" as a 165-week serial in the Saturday Post 200 years ago. But that is nothing compared with the courage needed to discard a feature. Crossword puzzles show a readership value of only 8 to 12 per cent, but editors have given up attempts to drop them because the complaining letters from a vocal minority carry greater weight than any statistical survey.

Editors are always short of space. They have to be drastic about cutting down some things in order to give representation to many things, though sponsors or writers of the mutilated articles may cry to high heaven against the sacrilege. As Philip Gibbs made one of his characters say in "Street of Adventure": "If there was an earthquake at Tooting Bec, and if all the animals at the zoo broke loose and dined off the population round Regent's Park, you can't get more than 56 columns in an 8-page paper. That's simple

THE GRIMSBY INDEPENDENT

Thurs., September 11th, 1947.

A veteran of nearly five years of war service, the Canadian National Steamship, Lady Rodney, known to thousands of Canadian servicemen, who paced her decks enroute to their points of duty, has undergone a complete rehabilitation and is back on "civvie street" as a first class luxury liner sailing on a regular schedule to Bermuda and the British West Indies from Halifax.

In pre-war days the Lady Rodney was one of a fleet of five "Lady" liners flying the colors of the C.N.S.S. She and her sister liner the Lady Nelson are the only survivors of that famous "Lady" fleet; the Lady Drake, Lady Hawkins, and Lady Somers being destroyed by enemy action. The Lady Nelson soon will return to her peace-time calling in the sea lanes of the British West Indies route.

Early last December, the Lady Rodney was berthed with the St. John Dry Dock Company where she was overhauled completely, all accommodation decks being stripped for the replacement of steel deck plating. Following the original plan of the vessel, the cabins and public rooms were rebuilt. The de-luxe cabins as shown above, top left, have been painted in pastel shades of blue and rose and refurnished with modern beds, dressing tables and bathrooms. The garden lounge, top right, located on "B" Deck aft, is refreshingly informal in light color scheme and rattan furniture. Below—the famous Lady Rodney, resplendent in a new white dress, restored to her former, yachtlike trim.

CHILDREN ON THE STREET

How far should young children be allowed to go out at night, and if they do, what can be done to keep them from forming undesirable associations? In former days some communities felt they helped solve that problem by sounding a curfew bell or whistle at eight or nine o'clock, after which time no youngsters were supposed to be on the street.

The modern child craves companionship, and it is not always possible to keep him tied up every evening at home. Here is where youth organizations come in. They give the youngsters a splendid outlet for their play spirit and yet they teach them very useful things and keep them away from undesirable companionship.

HEIRLOOMS

Many families treasure things handed down to them from past generations. Many of the old tables, chairs, desks, etc., thus inherited have become very valuable, in these times when antique furniture is so sought after.

CHINESE ACTING—To Western Eyes...

(By RONALD SLEAD, in Christian Science Monitor)

Tatung, North China
They tell me that I am the first Western character ever seen on the stage at the opera house in this ancient North Shansi city. And I can only say that the audience was wonderful. Puzzled, mind you. Which is very reasonable, since collectively it hadn't the foggiest idea what I was talking about. But very polite. Indeed, the applause afterwards was so generous that my humble offering might almost have been a masterpiece of Chinese acting instead of a few words of thanks in behalf of a warmly-received group of newspaper correspondents. Perhaps, however, that was a tribute to the interpreter.

This strange interlude hit the audience—mostly garrison troops and including a few guards whose fixed bayonets gleamed faintly in the dimness—during a Chinese opera. As a matter of fact (and I am writing frankly as an ignorant Westerner), it could probably have happened during the opera without impeding the action very much or the musical accompaniment at all.

The impression I got while watching the first few hours of the show—not only here, but in other theaters as well—was that anybody might stroll on the stage, repair a bicycle or build a piece of furniture, and wander off without attracting a great deal of attention.

After all, there are so many men, women, and children hovering around, without any discernible occupation related to the histrionic proceedings, that, after a time, one does not seem to notice them any more. I am alluding to the setup in the more modern theaters of the big cities, of course. I am referring to less ambitious productions in the hinterland of "the real China."

The art of the actors and actresses is not a thing I am qualified to assess. In certain cases I was told the standard was high. I quite believed that I should have been equally credulous if the verdict had been that it was low. It always seemed highly remarkable, considering that the acting consisted mainly of symbolic gestures, and I never knew what any of them meant.

The orchestration, however, is something that you cannot fail to get. You can get it three blocks away from the theater. The musicians sit right up on the stage, with the strings—usually a couple of operators—on the right and the percussion department—a more numerous body—on the left. Both give me a virtually nonstop performance. They appear to be in violent competition. But that is not so. That is an illusion obtained by unhearing Western ears (using the word, unhearing, in anything but its literal sense).

There is also a musician with what you might term a roving commission. He is based somewhere around the center of the stage, behind the characters who are singing or speaking (not to mention

There have been old furniture pieces which one's grandparents never valued greatly, and which looked plenty shabby in their time, which have been so treated and improved that they could be sold for a high price.

Many people cherish things like wedding dresses, wedding rings, jewelry, old fashioned watches, etc., which were worn or carried by some ancestor or relative. There is a lot of sentiment connected with these treasures. On thinks often of the person who once owned them, and they bring back old recollections and past scenes. Families do well to cherish them, and they grow in value as the years go on.

Blue is a wonderful color, but a terrible feeling.

It is much better to tell people how to get on than to tell them where to get off.

WHY SHE'S RELIEVED

"I always feel relieved," she said, "When vacation days are over, And once again I can hear the bell From the open schoolhouse door; For then I know six hours a day And five days of the week, I'm sure where I can find each child If their presence I would seek."

"I will not need to wonder now For a dozen times a day, 'Where have those youngsters got to now?' In their quest for fun and play; Car brakes may squeal upon the street And I need not startle be, And I will not fret at each cry I hear For fear 'she' belongs to me."

"When I scrub the kitchen's spotted floor I know it will last the day, No muddled feet will come dashing in As part of their boisterous play; And when I would sit in an easy chair A spell when washing's done, No slamming door will break my nap Before it is well begun."

For a woman who has work to do But their vigor's much too strong, "Oh, they are great fun, these kids of mine, And the bedlam lasts too long; So I must confess that I feel relieved When the Summer comes to Fall, And I know some teacher has my job As I hear the school bell's call."

What's the difference how old you are, you don't look it?

I have found another widow. I told her that her shorts were too short. Her dough is short, too.

Have you gazed at the new corral fence that surrounds 112 Main West? I am just getting ready for that new trotting horse.

The swell new Red and White Peach King Dairy truck on its daily rounds. Getting busier every day. What does the Milk Board think of that?

Peaches! Trucks! Peaches! Trailers! Peaches! Cars! Peaches! Tourists and Ontario visitors! Peaches! Truly Grimsby is the heart of the Peach Belt. The world's greatest Peach Belt.

Discovered! The solution to all the world's labor ills. Ma says that if all laboring men would work like "Pudge" McGregor does, there would never be any trouble between the boss and the working man.

I understand that one of Grimsby's finest young women is going to open one of those thing-of-a-ming shops for ladies in the store now occupied by Smith's Shoe Store. Did she get permission from the Milk Board to do so?

I am sorry that I could not go and perform my duties at the great "little do" that the kids of Main West were putting on, on the lawn of Miss Ann Crane on Saturday afternoon. I did get a great kick out of that little gentleman who came into my office and extended the invitation to me. That little lad, Peter, is just the type of kid that some day will run this country, better I know than it is being run now. Why shouldn't he? Look at his grandfathers, Dave Jackson and Charlie Bromley.

It would not surprise this columnist that alone about next January Reeve John Hewitt would have to sign the order committing "Red" Graham, the Faton Street Agriculturist, to the County Home. Weather conditions have been so bad that he has lost his whole fruit crop. Moreover, the load on his trees before the hot weather came broke them down. On one pear tree limb he had seven bushels of pears and lost them all. The blight has hit his potatoes; the green onions failed to materialize; his plum crop got fallen arches and taking it by and large he is a bankrupt farmer and fruit grower.

The following account, entitled "I Had Eighteen Bottles" is supposedly authentic. Even if it isn't, it has made the editors of eighteen joke books very happy:

I had eighteen bottles of whiskey in my cellar and was told by my wife to empty the contents of each and every bottle down the sink or else... I said I would and proceeded with the unpleasant task. I withdrew the cork from the first bottle and poured the contents down the sink with the exception of one glass which I drank. I extracted the cork from the second bottle and did likewise with it with the exception of one glass, which I drank. I then withdrew the cork from the third bottle and poured the whiskey down the sink which I drank. I pulled the cork from the fourth bottle down the sink and poured the bottle down the glass, which I drank. I pulled the bottle from the cork of the next and drank one sink out of it, and threw the rest down the glass. I pulled the sink out of the next glass and poured the cork down the bottle. Then I corked the sink with the glass, bottled the drink and drank the pour. When I had everything emptied, I steadied the house with one hand, counted the glasses, corks, bottles, and sinks with the other which were 29, and, as the house came by, I counted them again, and finally had all the houses in one bottle, which I drank. I'm not under the influence of inebriation, as some think I am. I'm not half as drunk as you might think. I feel so feellish I don't know who is me, and the drunker I stand here the longer I get. Oh me!

BRUTES!

Cosmetics for men are not new. Until early in the 19th century men used far more cosmetics than they do today, and vanity boxes often weighing up to 100 pounds were always in the luggage of a fashionable male. These boxes included dozens of crystal bottles filled with creams, face and hair lotions, oils, perfumes, bath salts and elixirs. Before the battle of Blenheim, the Duke of Marlborough had to issue strict orders forbidding his officers taking cosmetic boxes into the front line.

STRICTLY CANADIAN

By CLAIRE WALLACE

Etiquette has chameleon qualities, it sometimes allows you to change your colors and get away with it. In other words, it sets out certain rules for correct behavior and yet, on occasions, lets you break the rules and politely do the impolite thing. To illustrate, here's an etiquette rule started for us by a king, that we can sometimes break with propriety:

When a man and woman are dining in a restaurant or hotel and another man or woman comes up to speak to him for a few minutes, the rules say that the woman diner remains seated (unless the woman visitor is considerably senior), but the man diner always stands up. If the visitor is a woman, he must stand as long as she stays chatting, and if she knows her etiquette, that won't be long. If it is a man visitor, the diner stands to greet him, introduces him to his companion, and then the man diner may sit down again, while continuing to lend a sympathetic ear to the visitor's chatter.

But in one of those restaurants where you slide into a booth and it is difficult to pry yourself loose, and where aisles are narrow and easily blocked, you can break that standing rule and sit still when someone drops by your table to chat. But courtesy demands that you mention the lapse by saying: "Forgive me if I don't stand up," or words to that effect.

The custom of rising at table for a visitor or late-comer is credited to a king approximately 300 years ago, 3,000 miles away. Louis 14th of France instigated this and many other polite gestures, greatly improving manners in his time and earning himself the title of one of the most polite men in history. Doffing his hat in style to a lady was one of Louis' specialties. In those days men, including the king, often wore hats indoors as well as out, and didn't worry too much about tipping them to the fair sex. But courteous King Louis did and hat-lifting with him was worked out on a graded system which ranged from a courtly but restrained tip of his hat to a housemaid, to an arm-sweeping flourish of his hat when he ran into a duchess.

Everyone thought he was a little daft when King Louis started the business of standing up at his own dining table, every time a guest or spectator arrived, for some came to dine and many came to watch, when the royal dinner hour was on, and Louis was bounding to his feet practically all through the meal. But gradually this politeness caused others to become more polite, too; guests and spectators made a point of being on time so they would avoid the embarrassment of having the king stand up to greet them when late. Thus rising at the table to greet a visitor is really a kingly gesture.

QUESTIONS—ETIQUETTE—ANSWERS

COVERED HAND: E.B., Vancouver, B.C., writes: "At a recent fashionable wedding, several guests removed their gloves to shake hands with the bride's party. The bride's mother was the first one to greet the guests. She also had removed her gloves."

ANSWER: Yes, it is quite correct for the bride's mother to be the first one in the line to greet the guests. Usually gloves are worn at a fashionable or formal wedding, both by those in the receiving line and the guests, until refreshments are served. But it is optional, and when the bride's mother removed her gloves, it was a signal that guests could do likewise if they wished.

CHURCH SEATING: Elrose, Sask., "Anxious" writes: "When a member of Parliament is spending a week-end with friends, and he attends church with the family, what is the proper seating arrangement? There is the host, hostess and two or three in the family."

ANSWER: The children go into the pew first, then the hostess, followed by the guest, with the host the last one to enter the pew, sitting on the aisle.

TEA NOT ENOUGH

While tea makes a pleasant drink, it should not be the staple of a diet, say "live on healthy feeding. One who lives simply on tea, no matter how refreshing. "Often a vague craving for food results in tea drinking at frequent intervals" the authorities note, "and people fool themselves into thinking that is all they need. But tea should take second place to genuine food. People should eat three nutritious meals a day, and then they won't have that hidden hunger which a cup of tea stifles."

EVERYTHING NEW FOR FALL

By PRUNELLA WOOD

Time off today for all of us, time enough to say Farewell, Summer... what shall I get for Fall?... I haven't got a thing to wear. It is only a state of mind, of course, but a great spur to the shopper's ego just the same. New suits, perhaps, look less like old suits this fall than any other item in the wardrobe. Longer skirts effect the jacket's cut in new ways, whereas a lengthened skirt will often bring a frock up to date in its looks.

The model here wears her longer, rounder suit, with a new, bulkier and rounder hat; newer because longer gloves; and a calfskin bag with gold plated lock which is newer because of its own, and not made so by a shoulder strap plunge for length. It is made in such autumnal fashion shades as black, brown, navy, wine, green, tan. Neck scarf is tops for fall, too.

BROWN-EAMES

Rev. Canon W. G. Suter officiated at 6.30 o'clock Saturday evening, in the Church of St. Peter, Hamilton, at the wedding of Phyllis Jacqueline, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Eames, to Mr. Gerald William Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown of Sarnia, Ontario. About 350 guests were present.

Ferns and gladioli in shades of pink and American Beauty formed the church decoration and the pews were marked with blush-pink ribbon and clusters of gladioli. The wedding music was played by Mr. Reginald Britton; and Miss Mimi Johnston, as soloist, sang The Lord's Prayer, O Perfect Love and Think on Me.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a blush pink satin gown with Bruges lace yoke and full circular train. Her veil, extending the length of her train, was caught to a matching lace headress, and she carried a Prayer Book adorned with Sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

There were six bridal attendants—Miss Judith Eames, sister of the bride, and Miss Geraldine Hughes, junior bridesmaids; Miss Norma Burdett, maid of honour and Miss Patricia Poag, Barbara Clarke, (Toronto) and Miss Constance Bolton, (St. Catharines), bridesmaids. All attendants were gowned alike in ultra violet velvet fashioned with round, shirred yokes, fitted bodices and circular skirts. Their open-crowned hats of matching velvet were shaded by ostrich plumes. Their bouquets were of Briarcliffe roses.

The best man was Mr. Donald Morden Shaw, while those ushering the guests were Messrs. Charles Wilson (Toronto), Charles Holton, Brian Morrison and Charles Brown (Sarnia), brother of the groom.

The reception was held at Friendly Acres, Grimsby Beach, the country home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received guests. The bride wore a gown wearing an matching feathered hat gown with of American Beauty and corsage the mother of the roses; while the y crepe gown groom wore a greydery and matching accessories and coding trip.

Leaving for their wedding and by car and plane to New's tailored Bermuda, the bride wore a English suit of raspberry shade dark gabardine, matching corsage of brown accessories and couple will Johanna Hill roses.

Upon their return, the reside in Ancaster.

Sleek, cool, packable frocks bright and beautifully detailed add to the joys of summer. Celanese jersey is the fabric used for this charming little dress, a white field for a splash of tan, yellow and black poppies, boldly drawn, and widely spaced, bridged by tiny green leaves. The dress has the new square neckline edged with a cartridge roll which drapes the bodice. The tucking plus the narrow gold kidskin belt make the waistline trim and small and lends graceful fullness to the skirt.

WEST MAIN CHILDREN STAGE BIG CARNIVAL

A Midget Chamber of Commerce is in the making. Nine youngsters around twelve years of age, living on Main west, decided to raise some money for the Food for Britain Fund of the I.O.D.E. So, after several general meetings, it was decided to hold a Children's Carnival.

Miss Crane permitted the use of her spacious lawn, and the Carnival was held on Saturday afternoon last. Parents were coaxed into making cakes and cookies and other refreshments. Tickets were sold on the Grand Drawing Prize—a chocolate cake—two cents for children and five cents for adults. And the tickets really sold! The prize was won by Raymond Fisher.

Larry Lambert's Shooting Gallery was ably run by Larry Lambert and Billy Tennant. Prizes were won by those who hit the bull's-eye. The booth did a thriving business. The refreshment stand was patronized by all, and was ably managed by Catherine Casey, Glenda Moore and Susan Wade.

Patsy Scott looked after the entrance gate. Admission was a ticket on the Grand Drawing Prize.

Peter Bromley was in charge of the fish pond. Prizes for this were collected by John Brooks and were much sought after by the crowd.

Races were run and prizes were donated to the winners. It is suspected that the prizes were collected from the homes of the parents. When the parents finally called a halt to the carnival, the kids had made a profit of $11.05. This will be presented to the I.O.D.E. at their next regular meeting.

On the children's committee were Catherine Casey, President; Peter Bromley, Treasurer and General Manager; Committee, John Brooks, Glenda Moore, Susan Wade, Billy Tennant, Larry Lambert, Allan Bentley, Patsy Scott.

HARRY BIGGAR is horseless again, that is to say, the kind that can go out and win Futurities. That also means that there will be no automobile for some time to come for MYRT. The Cherry King last week sold that crack three year old colt trotter VAN BIGGAR to a Brantford syndicate for a chunk of dough that would even make THE VILLAGE BANKER quiver. It was a smart idea Harry. Be Scotch, take your profits when you get them. Good idea to salt some of it away, too. . . . Good-bye, SMOKE. If I were you I would never come out of the moth balls again. "THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT A SAILOR"

(By LEWIS MILLIGAN)

"There's something about a sailor—well, you know what sailors are." That was written and sung in the days of the "windjammers" when a life on the ocean wave was much harder and more perilous than it is today. There was adventure and romance in the sea in those days which lured youth with visions of far-off lands and held them in its spell of wanderlust to the end of their lives. This "sea-fever" found expression in the lines of John Masfield:

I must go down to the seas again,
To the lonely sea and the sky;
And all I ask is a tall ship,
And a star to steer her by.

Masfield knew whereof he sang, for he sailed out of port of Liverpool before-the-mast in those old sailing days of long voyages to Africa, India and the Orient. There was scarcely a family in Liverpool that did not have one or more members who early "took to the sea." Some of them "swallowed the anchor" in the first voyage and were dubbed "long-shoremen" by their former sea-mates. An elder brother of mine ran away to sea as a lad, and finally became boatswain of a schooner which sailed out of Liverpool on eleven-months trips to India, carrying coolies from Calcutta to the sugar plantations of Demarara. Although he married and tried to settle down ashore, he always had a hankering to be "off to sea again," and when the first Great War broke out he joined the Marines and was wounded in the landing at Gallipoli.

But that is an old story, and the romance has gone out of the sea with the passing of the sailing ship and the advent of the machine age. Kipling tried to make poetry out of a steamship, but his attempt was forced and mechanical, and in desperation he cried, "Lord send us a Robbie Burns to sing a song of steam!" There is no poetry in steam—at least not the kind that Burns wrote, or that of Alan Cunningham with its free, lyrical sweep that transports us immediately out into the open spaces and salt air of the ocean:

A wet sheet and a flowing sea,
A wind that follows fast,
And fills the white and rustling sail,
And bends the gallant mast;
And bends the gallant mast, my boys,
While, like an eagle free,
Away the good ship flies, and leaves
Old England on the lee.

No poet that I know of has yet written anything like that about a steamship. The reason is that the steamer has within itself the means of propulsion and makes straight for its goal, while the sailing ship spreads its wings like a bird to the varying winds and has to wrestle with the elements to make headway. The modern ocean liner is a majestic and purposeful thing, but it is not to be compared for beauty and romance with a full-rigged ship slanting against a head-wind.

With the disappearance of the old time sailing ship has gone the old time sailor, and we no longer sing the old songs of the sea, such as Tom Bowling, The Anchor's Weigh'd, The Bay of Biscay, Larboard Watch and Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep, which were so popular on concert platforms up to forty years ago. From the sailor's point of view, we need not regret the passing of the old windjammers, for it was a hard and often a wretched life on the rolling deep in those days. But life in general was harder than it is today, and the modern sailor does not seem to be as happy and contented with his easier lot as the jolly old shellback was with his rough and perilous one. Perhaps the explanation is that the sailor has become obsessed with the economic aspects of his job, and no poet has yet arisen who could make a song about economics.

FOODS WON'T FIGHT

Nutritionists at Ottawa, in the National Health services, poo-poo the belief that certain foods, taken together, will "fight" in the stomach. They say that there is no reason why a meal shouldn't include both lobster and ice-cream, for example.

Healthful foods don't create mysterious poisons, simply because they are mixed. People with robust digestions may eat most foods quite happily. However, any two foods hard to digest will naturally cause just that much extra distress if eaten together in large quantities. The secret, say the experts, is to eat in moderation as well as to choose foods for nutritive value.

Suggestion of government nutritionists at Ottawa for summer diet is ice cream, which, they point out, is nutritious as well as palatable. Ice Cream, in addition to a mixture of cream and other milk products, includes such things as starch, sugar, gelatine, gum arabic, flavouring extracts and eggs. To tempt jaded appetites, the food experts suggest a "topping" of fresh strawberries.

DAYING THE TOWER OF BABEL

Lin Yutang, Chinese author, is shown at his New York home introducing the Chinese typewriter, the fruit of 30 years' work, which he invented. It is the first Chinese typewriter which can type all known Chinese words. It can print 90,000 Chinese characters, requiring pressing of only three keys for each word. In addition it can type English, Japanese, Russian and the Chinese phonetic alphabet. With it, a typist can do in an hour the work of a Chinese copyist for a day. Lin Yutang's invention is the only Chinese typewriter which requires no previous training to operate. It is no larger than the standard American machine.

Worth working for!

Watching the men at work on his new barn, Jim thinks of the friendly talk he had with his bank manager. "I've got good land and I can work it. With a little extra money I can really make a dream come true..."

So Jim got his bank loan. Soon, there'll be new farm equipment... improved livestock... a well filled granary. More work for the community, more farm products, more food for home and export.

Helping people in all walks of life to profit from their own enterprise and industry is one of the chief functions of Canadian banks.

THIS IS ONE INSTANCE OF how Canada's 3,200 branch banks play their part in the daily life and work of Canadians.

"RUFFED GROUSE" by T. M. Shortt, Ornithologist

Whenever danger threatens her brood of downy chicks, the mother Ruffed Grouse invites death by trying to lure the intruder away from the nest. While she acts instinctively to preserve the species, we can act intelligently to help her. We need only give Nature a chance, in order to ensure the continued abundance of the "partridge", one of Canada's most celebrated game birds. * "Food and cover are the most important considerations in the life of a bird... few perish from the effects of adverse weather alone."

Thursday night last to take the round and put the Grimsby boys out of the running.

With their star pitcher Buchan though their spirit was good their skill was lacking. Smith the regular catcher had to be relieved after the first few innings by veteran receiver "Doc" Schwab and Miller was unable to go the distance on the mound and had to be relieved by Craig. The boys from Smithville played first class ball throughout with their team intact and it seem-their decisive win.

TOWN COUNCIL

Toronto, August 27, 1947.
G. G. Bourne, Clerk and Treasurer, Town of Grimsby, Grimsby, Ontario.
Dear Sir:

Re—William Brock Thompson, Grimsby.
We have for acknowledgment your letter of August 19th, containing the resolution passed at a recent meeting of the Town Council.

It would appear to the Board from recent press reports that there must have been some misinterpretation of our letter of Aug. 9.

The purpose of this letter was merely to inform the council of the situation, particularly in view of your letter, addressed to Mr. W. I. Thompson, under date of June 1, the first paragraph of which was quoted as follows:

"Referring to your interview with the town council last evening I am instructed to advise you that the council is agreeable to granting you a License for a dairy in the Town of Grimsby, upon payment of the required license fee, and the filing of the Permit from the Ontario Milk Board at this office."

For your information I have been instructed by the Board to give you some of the facts before it which are pertinent to this case:

1. Experience over a number of years has shown that a second distributor has not survived in the Grimsby market.
2. There are prior applications on file for permission to distribute milk in Grimsby by parties who have plants already established and who are still interested.
3. Certain statements, made by the above applicant at the time of his hearing before the Board, upon subsequent investigation, found to be incorrect.
4. Mr. Thompson proceeded to erect a plant and make deliveries of milk before first securing a license in accordance with the Milk Control Act.

In accordance with its responsibilities under the Act, the Board was not satisfied, after weighing very carefully all the circumstances and evidence before it, that it would be in the public interest to issue a license to this applicant.

Yours very truly,
A. P. CLARKE, Sec'y

Bonham—"No parties have plants, property or assets in Grimsby and therefore we are not interested in them, even they have prior applications. There are several outside dairies distributing milk in Mr. Thompson's territory right now."

"Has the Milk Board authority. Can they override the citizens of this Town. If so, it is about time that some action was taken."

Bonham—"Did, or did not, the Milk Board make certain promises or agreements behind closed doors regarding dairies in Grimsby? I want to know."

Mayor Bull—"I believe the Board are overstepping their authority in creating a monopoly in this town. 42 years ago there were two dairies making money in this town with a lot of individual cow owners on the side."

"This whole thing is wrong. I want the Board to come out in the open on this. There are milk dairies from different points delivering milk all around us and through us, but they say only one milk dairy can deliver milk in the whole Town of Grimsby"—Bonham.

Mayor—"Before Mr. Thompson came here we could not get homogenized milk or chocolate milk and now we can."

Bonham—"Their statement that this town cannot support two dairies is ludicrous."

Those are the highlights though all councillors had plenty to say on the question and all were unanimous in the fact that the Milk Board cannot run Grimsby.

The following motion was carried unanimously—Hewitt-Bonham—"That this council instruct our Clerk to get in touch with The Milk Board of Ontario and ask them to meet the council as a whole and discuss this milk question as soon as possible, re milk distribution in the Town of Grimsby, and failing this when would it be possible for us to send a committee to the Milk Board."

Another very important question dropped on the council like a bombshell when Mayor Bull informed them that more land was needed badly for Queen's Lawn cemetery. At the present time there are only 83 full lots and 49 half lots left unsold in this God's Acre, with the exception of "Plot of Remembrance."

Separating on the suggestion Mayor said, "the situation is grave, or than you think gentle" as to what you wish to do as we from 50 to 75 burials a year. It is a grave situation and must be considered at the next meeting."

Going further, His Worship asked the cemetery committee to consider the advisability of increasing the cost of burials, pointing out that every burial in Queen's Lawn is being handled at a direct loss.

Council passed a motion of thanks to the Press boys who cover the council meetings for their donation of a picture of the Peach Kings hockey team, which has been framed and now hangs among the dignitaries of the Council Chamber.

A resident on the west side of Murray street north, which is in the Township, appealed to council for a supply of electricity and was referred to the Hydro Commission, which led Councillor Bonham to remark that it would only be a short time until the town would have to take in that section of territory from the township and end a bad situation that is rapidly being created.

Complete plans and specifications for the reconstruction of the sewage disposal plant were before council as prepared by Gore and Storie, consulting engineers, of Toronto. Council passed a motion instructing this firm to proceed with the application for approval of the plans before the Ontario Municipal Board. A meeting of council with the engineers will be held next week.

Grimsby Natural Gas Co. applied to council for a renewal of their franchise for a further period of 10 years. Clerk Bourne will find out from Town solicitor Seymour if a vote of the electors is necessary in order to grant this renewal. No mention was made as to whether there would be a raise in the price of gas, or not in the renewal.

Ex-Reeve H. G. Mogg appeared on behalf of the residents of Kidd Avenue and Bolton Street requesting that the Board of Works do some repair work on these two roadways as they are heavily travelled and in very bad shape.

During August Grimsby Waterworks pumped 15,776,000 gallons of water, which hot wave and all was a decrease of 146,000 gallons over 1946; average per day 508,908 gals.; biggest day, August 14th, 905,000 gals.; smallest day, August 31st, 325,000 gals.; decrease in average per day, 4,706 gals.; gasoline engine operated 13 hours, 10 minutes; lake level down one inch from July.

West End system in the township consumed 516,000 gals.; East End, 2,063,000 gals.; power bills, August $164.66, July $165.88, August, 1946, $168.96.

A council committee will take up the question of the preparing of a Book of Golden Remembrance of the men and women who served overseas.

Chief of Police W. W. Turner reported that during August he had one court case of person leaving scene of accident dismissed; one charge drunk driving, seven days in Jail, $8 fine; one drunk charge, $11 fine; four charged under Traffic By-Law, paid $2 each; complaints investigated 18; dog tax collected $2.25.

Tax Collector Jewson reported in August taxes collected amounted to $7,648.01, as against $4,967.44 in 1946; total taxes, arrears and current, since January amounted to $66,617.38.

Council in future will keep valuable papers in safety boxes in the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Relief accounts for August amounted to $38.31.

Joint Fire committee accounts for $151.97 were ordered passed.

By-Law 1089 was passed for supplementary road expenditure in 1947, providing for the raising of $8,965.98 for construction and maintenance of streets.

General Voucher accounts for $3,072 were passed.

Mayor Bull explained that work had been deferred on Kidd Avenue pending the laying of a new water main on that street.

Building Permits totalling $6,425 were granted to:

Roger Haves for a cement block work shop at 18 Gibson avenue, 16x20 feet.

Keith Brown, 11 Gibson avenue, remodelling dwelling house.

Art Forester, 11 Fairview, repair work.

Mrs. Vi Markey, Main east, remodelling residence.

John W. Hall, new residence on the west side of Maple Avenue, to cost $3,600.

Miss Marguerite Farrell, Orchard Lane, new garage.

Fr. Case, 6 St. Andrew's Ave., screen-in veranda.
T. Eric Baka, 42 Main West, erection of sign.
